The beautiful Chilterns North Wessex Downs and Thames Valley

Accessible by train

Take the Great Western Railway to Goring and Streatley

A fully accessible station in picturesque countryside

Goring Gap and its areas of outstanding natural beauty

Goring and Streatley station is the gateway to the Goring Gap, a natural corridor carved through the chalk some 12,000 years ago. With its fully accessible facilities the station is the ideal starting point for visitors with limited mobility to sample the river and countryside of the Thames valley. Arriving by train across the graceful Brunel bridge at Moulsoford, or its sister bridge at Gatehampton, offers a tantalising glimpse of the delights in store.

The twin villages of Goring and Streatley are unique as a leisure destination for weekenders and day trippers. They're the meeting point of the long distance linear trails called the Thames Path and Ridgeway National Trails and two Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONBs), the Chilterns and the North Wessex Downs. Prominent among their landmarks are Lardon Chase, Streatley Hill and other ancient, open landscapes protected by the National Trust.

Withymead Nature Reserve

Miles of towpaths and level or gently graded footpaths, many accessible to wheelchairs and mobility scooters, enable the visitor to explore the Thames and enjoy magnificent views of the unspoilt scenery on its Oxfordshire and Berkshire banks. Linking these historic counties is the picturesque Goring bridge. Its adjacent river lock and nearby open spaces are ideally accessible spots for the perfect summer picnic. Kenneth Grahame and Jerome K Jerome found inspiration in the Goring Gap for their classic tales, The Wind in the Willows and Three Men in a Boat. Oscar Wilde, who lived briefly in Goring, was inspired to give local place names to six of his characters in An Ideal Husband. Today's visitors find inspiration in the scenery, the warm welcome and the unrivalled hospitality. For what else to see and do and where to stay in the Goring Gap go to: ❖ www.withymead.co.uk ❖ www.visitgoringandstreatley.co.uk ❖ www.bbwt.org.uk/reserves/Hartslock ❖ www.visitthames.co.uk/about-the-river/river-thames-locks/goring-lock
